

Cookie policy

We use cookies, which are small text files placed on your computer or mobile device when you visit our Services to better enable their features and functionality. By using our Services, you consent to our use of cookies as described in this Cookie Policy. Please note that third party websites that you may be directed to may use their own cookies.

We use two types of cookies: persistent cookies and session cookies.

A persistent cookie helps us recognize you as an existing user, so it is easier to return and interact with our Services. After you accept our Cookie Policy, a persistent cookie stays in your browser and will be read by our Services when you return.

A session cookie is temporary and enables you to move from page to page on our Services and allows information that you enter to be remembered during your session using the Services. A session cookie is deleted when you close your browser or after a short period of time.

If you do not want cookies placed on your computer or mobile device, you can adjust the setting of your Internet browser to reject some or all cookies and to alert you when a cookie is placed on your device. However, if you adjust the setting to reject all cookies, some features and functionalities of our Services may be blocked or adversely affected.

While adjusting your browser setting can prevent the future placement of cookies, it does not remove existing persistent cookies. You can manually remove previously stored persistent cookies by following Internet browser help file directions.

You can find additional information about cookies, including information about adjusting Internet browser settings and deleting cookies, at www.allaboutcookies.org.
